

Peach Yellows: A Preliminary Report (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Peach Yellows: A Preliminary Report Sir: This preliminary report, prepared by request mi advance of a report on the ?tiology of the yellows, embraces all the trustworthy information I have been able to gather during sixteen months of continuous observation and inquiry. It is too much to expect that it is entirely lice from errors, but every statement has been repeatedly scrutinized, and an honest endeavor has been made to bring each one to the lest of actual facts, irrespective of previous opinion. The held work received special attention, and will, I think, throw light upon a number of important points. Some experiments have been completed, some are now under way, and some remain to be performed. Much additional field work and a large body of very important microscopic work remain to be done before definite conclusions can be reached as to the cause of the disease In my judgment, however, the results already obtained are sufficient to warrant the vigorous prosecution of the investigation in the field and in the laboratory, and to lead to the belief that the cause of the disease will be definitely settled in the near future. Throughout, the investigation peach growers in all parts of the country have manifested a very lively interest, and have materially facilitated my work.
