

Elementary Treatise on Stock Feeds and Feeding (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Elementary Treatise on Stock Feeds and Feeding This book has been written to furnish the readers with a knowledge of stock feeds, the principles of feeding and the care of farm animals. It is so arranged that it may be used as a text-book, or for farmers, or for those interested in commercial feeds. Many of the American feeders waste a great deal of money through unwise selection of feeds; many do not properly supply the needs of their live stock; and many could improve their systems of feeding. This little book should acquaint the readers with suggestions along these lines, serve to solve many problems which confront the farmer and perhaps be a means of increasing his profits. The subject matter has been written in as simple and practical a way as possible so as to be within reach of all interested in the subject. It is to be hoped that this little volume will fill a useful place in the libraries of farmers and students of animal feeding. Acknowledgments. The writer is indebted to Dr. W. H. Dalrymple, Department of Veterinary Science and to Prof. E.L. Jordan, Department of Animal Husbandry, of the Louisiana State University, for their many valuable suggestions. Prof. G. L. Tiebout, of the Louisiana State University very kindly helped in printing some of the photographs. The illustrations have been secured from the Louisiana Experiment Station and credit is given in the text for illustrations secured from other sources.
