

Directory services markets in Nigeria, West Africa, and Africa

The Directory Service Markets in Nigeria is underdeveloped and unreliable due to infrastructure shortage, but this is changing , as competition intensifies and new technologies are able to deliver wireless broadband access. This remains a growing industry and anecdotal evidence suggests significant upwards movement in the transformation of Nigerias telecommunications landscape since the licensing of three GSM networks in 2001 and a fourth one in 2002 has been nothing short of astounding. Work carried out in Abuja is mainly operational back & middle office. This work is complex requiring a sophisticated mix of people, process and technology. KGB has little if any presence in this market and thus it is proposed that a viable opportunity exists.
