

Excerpt from Modern Farming: In a Series of Treatises The present volume is based upon a series of article on Farm Crops and Cropping, which has appeared within the last few years in the Journal of Agriculture, and Transactions of the Highland and Agricultural Society. Much of the matter therein given has been here availed of, but the whole has been remodelled, and a large amount of new material added, in order to bring the volume within the scope of the Miscellany, of which it forms a part, and up to the most recent date of practical experience. From the interest which the articles above alluded to excited at the period of their publication, it is hoped that in their new, amended, and greatly-extended form, they will serve - in the much wider circle this Miscellany addresses, and aims at reaching - that practically useful and suggestive purpose the author, in their preparation, had in view, and which he has here endeavoured more fully and completely to realize. In succeeding Parts of this important department of Farming Literature - the Culture of its Crops - the subjects of Oats, Barley, Beans, Pease, Turnips, Mangold Wurzel, Cabbage, Artificial and Natural Grasses, Clover, &c., &c., will be consecutively taken up, and fully discussed and illustrated.
